

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Supt. of Public Instruction.
DR. H. A. M. HENDERSON, of Bourbon county, is a candidate for reelection to the office of Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Hon. Z. F. SMITH, of Henry county, is a candidate for Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Wisdom to Reflect.

The protective system of duties in this country may well be a matter of interesting consideration at present, and we depart from it to adopt the policy of England, Switzerland or that of Germany partial free trade, we had better give the present a thought and investigate the operation of this system in the old world and compare their condition with our own and the condition of protective France, our competitive condition in manufactures (except for the blighting effects of the civil war and the ruinous policy of the Republican party) would have been most cheering now and challenged the whole world with our rivalry. France, although of Europe, under this protective policy is strikingly prosperous. Germany is now questioning her future policy, and Russia is for protective duties; her great iron and steel interest are in a depressed state—one of her iron works which employs 1,500 workmen is now languishing, and the attention of the empire is turned to this subject. England has already begun to question her policy, and will ultimately follow the policy of protective duties. We are not arguing the question of free trade and protective tariff, but only in view of these facts, suggest that mature deliberation upon so great a subject had better be adopted than to press into a false condition from political partisan interest.

Hon. Thos. L. Jones.

This distinguished Democratic candidate for Governor of Kentucky addressed the people at this place on last Friday night. But for the unfavorable weather and condition of the roads, the Court House would have been filled to hear one of the old-fashioned, true-blue Democracy. We were not disappointed in the ability of Col. Jones, whose statesman-like record is part of his country's. He examined in a clear and searching exhibit the antecedents of the Republican party, and came to the only conclusion that truth dictated—that the policy of that party had afflicted us with the present depression, paid some attention to the great fraud, and informed us he was opposed in Congress to the Commission that perpetrated the damnable deed. He argued the fact that all the relief and advantages we are having have resulted from the Democracy in Congress, and felt hopeful of the successful triumph of the party in the future. He paid his respects to his opponents in courteous terms to which no exception could be taken. Col. Jones is a calm, deliberate speaker, with a clear and pleasant voice, well posted in politics, and would make, an excellent Governor of Kentucky.

State Canvass.

Webster county instructed for Underwood for Governor, Hughes for Lieut. Governor, Hardin for Attorney General, Hewitt for Auditor, Tate for Treasurer, Kerby for Superintendent Public Instruction, and L. Wilson for Register.

Caldwell county instructed for Underwood for Governor, Cantrell for Lieut. Governor, D. H. Smith for Auditor, Edgar for Superintendent Public Instruction, Moss for Attorney General and Boyd for Register.

Representing Three States in the U. S. Senate.

Gen. James Shields will, probably, do what no other man ever has done, represent three different States in the United States Senate. He has heretofore represented Illinois and Minnesota, and on the 15th inst. was nominated by the Democratic caucus of the Missouri Legislature for the short term in the Senate over D. H. Armstrong, by the decided vote of 88 to 37, and the nomination has been confirmed by an election.

County Convention.

The following counties have called conventions to appoint delegates to the Democratic State Convention, to be held in Louisville, May 1, 1879. Carroll county, February 3rd. Boone county, February 3rd. Carter county, February 10th. McCracken county, February 10th. Hickman county, March 3rd. Jessamine county, February 22nd. Owen county, February 24th. Lincoln county, February 3rd. Campbell county, February 3rd. Livingstone county, February 10th. Hardin county, February 10th. Pulaski county, February 17th. Breckenridge county, Feb. 17th.

According to the law passed by the last session of the Legislature giving the people the right to vote on the question of calling a Convention to change the Constitution, the Assessors are required to make out lists of all voters who are entitled to vote for Representatives, and it requires a majority of all those in the State entitled to vote to carry the question, and not a majority of the votes cast.

Favorable Response.

Editor Herald: I noticed in the published proceedings of the Ohio County Teachers' Association that the Committee on Program had requested me to deliver an educational address at the next meeting. I thank the committee for the honor of the request and will comply with it, if practicable. The Association should be encouraged in their persistent efforts to maintain an organization calculated to do great good to all concerned. The education of youth and the general dissemination of knowledge among the people are the greatest factors in elevating a commonwealth to the highest standard of dignity, influence, and prosperity.

Permit me to say that I commend your wisdom and public spirit in devoting a part of your paper as an exclusively Educational Department, and I think Mr. Hawkins is entitled to thanks for the time and labor he expends in conducting it so creditably.

Very respectfully,
W. B. HAYWARD.

Jan. 23, 1879.
Charles L. Morehead, Police Judge of South Carrollton, declines not on a bed of roses. He has been sued by John Blacklock for $15,000 damages for denying him a trial by jury. H. M. Davis has also brought suit against Morehead for the same offense, laying damages at $500.

We have heard a great deal of complaint of the arbitrary manner in which justice is dealt out by Judge Morehead; but, of our own knowledge, know nothing. Morehead has sued Blacklock and Robt. Carnahan for $1,500 for assault and battery. We understand that in the case of Blacklock, Morehead was Prosecuting Attorney as well as Judge, and examined the witnesses and conducted the case generally, and then decided it himself, refusing a jury. It is reported also that he had a Grand Jury impelled and a lot of indictments made out and the parties arrested by virtue thereof. This, if true, is rather wide latitude for a Police Judge of a small village, and he surely needs taking down a button-hole or two. Our readers will understand us, however, that we do not know these things to be true, but they are currently reported.

Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 25. [From our Regular Correspondent.] The great last week was the cipher dispatch discussion in the House. The previous announcement that General Butler would contribute a speech to the occasion, and pay his respects to cipher literature, sufficed to attract one of the largest crowds of the session, many of whom went away without having experienced the sensation of extreme delight they had anticipated. It was supposed that the General knew a thing or two about ciphers and that his contribution would be exceedingly lively. But Benjamin did not shy his castor into the ring with the air of a man who meant to hurt somebody. He came up smiling, with a rosebud in the button hole of his coat, and in a very deliberate and dignified manner delivered himself of a few high-toned judicial reasons for opposing the proposed investigation. He thought the House lacked jurisdiction, and that it would simply be the stirring up of private scandal. The Major General is evidently cultivating dignity and respectability preparatory to his inauguration as Governor of Massachusetts next year. This was his chance to shower a few of the bricks with which his hat is said to be filled, and he failed to improve it. In the course of his remarks he stated, however, that nobody had ever seen the bundle of dispatches so mysteriously found upon his desk last year, and that when brought to light they might hit somebody.

Hale and Conger could not let pass the opportunity to inject a little of their partisan malice into the debate, both indulging in some of their sickly species of wit. Hale said something about a conspiracy to defeat the will of the people, probably referring to the successful scheme of his illustrious father-in-law, Zachariah, and John Sherman, assisted by the other Chandelers, and a few chosen experts. Before Butler's speech every Republican had quietly opposed investigation, because they were not certain that the General's bundle did not contain some of old Zach's and Morton's dispatches, but emboldened by the General's omission to confirm their fears, they changed front. Little Eugene professes to doubt that Morton destroyed the Republican dispatches, but he manifestly stood a good deal firmer on his pins after Butler had spoken.

Mr. Hewitt's speech on the subject was the most important deliverance, as the statements of his personal knowledge of the innocence of Mr. Tilden, and that the Democratic committee had scorned to resort to the use of money, were accepted as the utterance of a man entitled to belief. When he said that the investigation would prove that at least one of the candidates for President in that memorable year was not a mere trickster, ready to bargain for the highest office in the nation, a sensation of applause passed over the packed galleries and the floor below. "Does anybody believe," said Mr. Hewitt, "that if Mr. Tilden had been in a scheme to buy these corrupt returning boards the thing would have failed for want of money?" It will be shown that the sounders were for sale and volunteered propositions to that end, but Mr. Tilden refused to furnish the money, though a few friends regarded it a case of property in the hands of thieves. They know that the Electoral vote of these states legally belonged to Tilden, and as the law seemed powerless to wrest them from the rogues it was thought prudent to pay the ransom, as is often done to secure the restoration of property to its rightful owner, but Mr. Tilden would not consent to it, and the matter fell through. Take this in connection with the fact that the other side did induce these same thieves to deliver the property over to a party who had no claim upon it, while R. B. Hayes has rewarded every one of them and we have the case summed up.

Senator Conkling is waging his old war upon the administration with renewed vigor and bitterness. It is a pretty fight as it stands, and I think the Democratic Senators will be wise if they decline to take any hand in it. They helped the Senator out once and got nothing but abuse for it afterwards. If he can now defeat Mr. Hayes Custom House appointments within the party ranks let him do it, though that will not restore his friends Arthur and Cornell to their positions. But it is really amusing to hear the Senator hurl his keen sarcasm at the occupant of the Presidential Mansion. "Mr. Hayes" said he the other day in executive session, "has shown this committee no consideration and is entitled to none. Whereupon Mr. Wheeler, the legislative half of the fraud, promptly called the New York Senator to order for omitting to use the title of 'President.' 'I am not out of order,' responded the New York Senator, 'because when I speak of Mr. Hayes I am not speaking of the President.' This coming from the Democratic side would be right and proper, but from Senator Conkling, who helped to place Mr. Hayes in a position that didn't belong to him, when it was in his power to have prevented it, the point of the utterances, like a two edged sword, cut both ways.

A joint committee of both houses of Congress is tinkering away at some provisions for taking the next census. The bill recently introduced by Mr. Cox, of New York, has been adopted, except the section relative to the appointment of Supervisors. Mr. Cox proposed to have this done by the Governors of the different States, but as part of the States have Democratic Governors the Republicans object to this, and want to fix it so that only Republicans can be appointed. As the work is to be done during the year of the Presidential campaign, it would seem entirely proper to have it as far removed from federal patronage as possible, and Mr. Cox's plan is certainly as near non-partisan as can be. The special agents and experts being under the control of the Superintendent, who is to be a federal appointee, that is enough. The federal patronage is already enormous, and politics enter too much into every department of public business. Notable events have not been numerous so far. Receptions at the White House are more slimly attended than ever before.

THE NEW SENATORS.

Matthew H. Carpenter
The Republican nominated Matt. H. Carpenter for the United States Senate from Wisconsin by acclamation on the 22nd. The joint convention of the Senate and Assembly at Madison on the 22nd, elected Matt. H. Carpenter United States Senator to succeed T. O. Howe, the vote standing; Carpenter, 84; Ryan, 28; Bouck, 13.

VEGETINE.

AN EXCELLENT MEDICINE.

This is to certify that I have used Vegetine manufactured by H. R. Stevens, Boston, Mass., for Rheumatism, and Neural Prostration of the Nervous System, with good success. I recommend Vegetine as an excellent remedy for such complaints.

Yours very truly,
C. W. VANDERGRIFT.

OUR MINISTER'S WIFE.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Feb. 16, 1877.
Dear Sir—Three years ago I was suffering with inflammatory Rheumatism. Our minister's wife advised me to take Vegetine. After taking one bottle I was entirely relieved. This year, feeling a return of the disease, I again commenced taking it, and am being benefited greatly. It greatly improves my digestion. Respectfully,
Mrs. A. BALLARD.
111 West Jefferson street.

SAFE AND SURE.

Mr. H. R. Stevens
In 1872 my Vegetine was recommended to me, and, yielding to the persuasions of a friend I consented to try it. At the time I was suffering from general debility and nervous prostration, aggravated by stomach and irregular habits. Its wonderful strengthening and curative qualities seemed to affect my debilitated system, and the result was, that after its persistent use I rapidly recovered, gaining more than usual health and good feeling. Since then I have not hesitated to give Vegetine my unqualified endorsement, as being a safe, sure and powerful agent in promoting health and restoring the wasted system to its normal condition. I did so, and by your kind medicines I use; and as long as I live I never expect to find a better.

Yours truly,
W. H. CLARK
120 Monterey street, Allegheny, Penn.

VEGETINE.

The following letter from Rev. G. W. Mansfield, formerly pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Hyde Park, at present settled in Lowell, most convincingly shows that his health was improved by the use of Vegetine as a thorough cleanser and purifier of the blood.

HYDE PARK, MASS., Feb. 15, 1876.

Dear Sir—About ten years ago my health failed through the debilitating effects of dyspepsia; nearly a year later I was attacked by typhoid fever in its worst form. It settled in my back, and took the form of a large deep-seated abscess, which was fifteen months in gathering. I had two surgical operations by the best skill in the city, but received no permanent cure. I suffered great pain at times, and was constantly weakened by a profuse discharge. I also lost small pieces of bone at different times.

Matters ran on thus about seven years, till May, 1874, when a friend recommended me to try your office, and talk with you of the virtues of Vegetine. I did so, and by your kind medicines passed through my manhood, noting the ingredients, and, by which your remedy is produced.

By what I saw and heard I gained some confidence in Vegetine. I commenced taking it soon after, but felt some from its effects. Still I persisted, and soon felt it was benefitting me in other respects. Yet I did not see the results I desired till I had taken it more than a year, and a year, when the difficulty in the back was cured; and for nine months I have enjoyed the best of health.

I have in that time gained twenty-five pounds of flesh, being heavier than ever before in my life, and I was never more able to perform labor than now.

During the past few weeks I had a sore throat swelling as large as my fist, and on another part of my body.

I took Vegetine faithfully, and it removed it level with the surface in a month. I think I should have been cured of my main trouble sooner if I had taken larger doses, after having become accustomed to its effects.

Let your patients troubled with sore throat or kidney disease understand that it takes time to cure chronic disease; and, if they will patiently take VEGETINE, it will, in my judgment, cure them.

With great obligations I am
Yours very truly,
G. W. MANSFIELD.
Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

I will tell you what's a fact, Jake, I've been here a while, and if that don't start to grind, I won't come any more.

They say there's something basted, Jake, I wonder if it's the "biter," Or if the darn thing's out of fix, Why the thunder don't they "biter."

When this mill was first built, Jake, My old "gal," she would say, Now you can do your minding, And your training in one day.

But it's not "agin" the grain, Jake, For to wait here every day, An' then without a bit of meal, To have to go away.

I'll be darned if I can stand it, Jake, Just look at my old "gritter," I'll take him home and put him up, And use the old tin "gritter."

Johnny Martin, he has opened His establishment again, And will soon be shipping hogheads Of tobacco on the train.

TEXAS LETTER.

WAXAHACHIE, TEXAS, Ellis Co., Jan. 11th, 1879.

Editor Herald:

As I have not seen your face for several weeks, I thought I would inform you of my removal from Dallas to Ellis county, two miles west of Waxahachie, the County Seat. It is a flourishing place of some 1500 inhabitants, with a full complement of business houses, four churches, two good schools, court house and jail (which they make good use of), fine merchant mills and cotton yard, where we can sell our cotton for money and not be compelled to barter for goods.

The Texas Central Rail Road passes through the Eastern portion of the county, which gives ready transportation for all the surplus horses, cattle, hogs, sheep, cotton, wheat, oats, barley and sweet potatoes. So you see we are not quite out of the world, if we are way down in the "Lone Star" State.

In the "Land of Flowers," in the "Sunny South," one expects perpetual spring; but, had you been with us the last two weeks, while we had snow four inches deep and ice three inches thick, and felt the wind, like a barber's dull razor, grubbing away at what little beard you may have left, it might alter your opinion of the locality of Texas; and, if it gets much colder, I think we might hunt the grizzly bear with some hope of success, as the present change of climate would suit his habits admirably.

The soil in this country is what we call "black wax." The topsoil will not scour, but the land is very productive and easily cultivated. It will be more productive a hundred years hence—cultivation seems to improve it.

We have some rough, thin land in this country, sufficient for grazing our work-stock.

The water is pure limestone. The cheerful, rose-faced inhabitants are living testimonials of our healthy climate. No miasmatic poisons here to breed sickness and death.

About one-third of the land in this country is under cultivation. The remainder, in grass and flowers, is held by land jobbers anxious to sell at about five dollars per acre.

The best body of land in the State is in this country and it is strange it should be overlooked by persons hunting homes. They come to the Rail Road towns, meet with land agents and road employees, who are very lavish with their advice to go West. It is often taken, a hundred-dollar outfit purchased, and the traveler starts out to find the Eldorado of Texas; travels for months, returns to the nearest station, gets out at a sacrifice, and leaves for his old home, disgusted with Texas without ever having seen the better portion of the State.

Persons seeking homes in Texas would do well to see this country before going West. They would find the people hospitable, intelligent and civil. I have traveled more than a thousand miles over the State, and it was mere accident that I dropped into this country among old acquaintances (Nat Wise and Green Davis), whom I had not seen for years, and I appreciated their kindness in showing me around.

Rockport Letter.

Rockport, Ky., January 21st, 1879.

Editor Herald:

Since the days of the Register, I have noticed nothing in your columns from the "Future City," and thinking that perhaps some of your readers would like to hear from this part of the county, I have concluded to give the Herald a few items, or the editor some trash for the waste basket.

The Register is a cunent, the editor gone to Louisville, the assistant editor sold to a gentleman in Elizabethtown, the Mrs. Editor is boxing her household goods for shipment, and many mourn the loss.

The Graded School is also dead. The Reverend Lawyer Teacher absconded from these parts, leaving some to mourn after a five-weeks board and wash bill and other debts contracted by his Reverence, consisting of school desks, coal bins, paints, etc., used by a thrifty man, leaving a record following close in his wake as dark as any need for, beginning with a notice tacked to the Baptist church door, which is as follows: "To all whom it may concern. This is to notify the public that the firm of Carter, Turner, Christ & Co. has dissolved partnership, and any person indebted to said firm, either by schooling or public worship, by coming forward and settling will oblige the same. This, January 14th, 1879."

Your correspondent adds that as Carter & Christ can agree on principles, the public worship will go on and continue to be free; but, as Turner has become disgusted at them, he has withdrawn from the firm and designs forming an alliance with his Satanic majesty for the purpose of dead beating school teaching, or any thing, as you will learn from the following paragraph from the Nashville Presbyterian:

"LOOK OUT FOR HIM.—The Standard, of Uniontown, Pa., has another exposure of Turner, noticed in the paper of two weeks ago. He has been in Pennsylvania passing by the names of Moffitt and LaVerne. He married a woman of some means, took her money and left her in Baltimore. He is, as we understand, the same Gordon Turner of Longwood, Mo., where he has a wife. He was formerly a member of the Lexington Presbytery, and obtained a letter, but has since been deposed. He, of course will assume names to suit circumstances, but no church exercising ordinary care and judgment need be deceived. He may be recognized by the following description, which the standard gives: Age about 45 years; hair, brown; eyes, blue; height, medium, about five feet five or six inches; dark blue mark over the right eye; scar on the left cheek; nose large; mouth rather small; speaks fluently; is well calculated to deceive; preaches, so far as is known, for Baptist and Cumberland Presbyterians."

So much for the Reverend Lawyer-Preacher; but shame on the young men who put the notice on the church door.

Messrs. Woodburn & Wilkins have about completed their preparations for making fellos and plow-hauls. River high and still rising, streets getting muddy, roads bad, business dull.

Col. R. M. Martin, of New York, is visiting his father in this place.

L. S. Williams is going to Clarksville, Tenn., to-morrow.

Health is generally good. May the Herald prosper and grow big and the editor rich, is the wish of H.A.S.

TRIMBLE COUNTY.

LAGRANGE, Jan. 13.—The Democrats of Trimble in mass-meeting to-day appointed delegates to the May convention, and instructed as follows: Governor, Blackburn—second, Jones; Lieutenant Governor, Cantrell; Attorney General, Hardin—second, Jones; Auditor, Hewitt; Superintendent of Public Instruction, Henderson; Register, Vories—second, Sheldon. The delegates were instructed to vote as a unit on all questions.

CRITTENDEN COUNTY.

PRINCETON, Jan. 13.—Crittenden county to-day instructed as follows: Governor, Underwood; Lieutenant Governor, Hughes; Attorney General, Hardin; Auditor, Hewitt; Treasurer, Tate; Superintendent of Public Instruction, Henderson; Register, Boyd. Hughes and Boyd were nominated by acclamation.

NICHOLAS COUNTY.

CARLENE, Jan. 13.—The Democrats of Nicholas county met in convention to-day and instructed for the following candidates: L. P. Blackburn, for Governor; F. L. Cleveland, Lieutenant Governor; P. W. Hardin, Attorney General; J. W. Boyd, Auditor; Prof. T. C. H. Vance, Superintendent of Public Instruction; M. Williams, Register of Land office. The indorsement of the above candidates was decided and very enthusiastic.

Mercantile and tradesmen who expect to prosper without advertising might expect to live without eating. People read newspapers more than they read signs and bills, and they are more apt to be struck with a well expressed announcement in the columns of a regular journal than by any other method. Advertising is the soul of business. It invites trade and encourages enterprise. Some persons are short-sighted enough to think an advertisement does no good except to aid and encourage the publisher, but this is far from a fair view. The interest is reciprocal, and the small investment which helps the printer increases the business of the tradesman to many times its value.—[Frankfort Yeoman.]

A WONDERFUL DISCOVERY!

CARBOLINE.

A DEODORIZED EXTRACT OF PETROLEUM.

The only Article that will Restore

Hair on Bald Heads.

WHAT THE WORLD HAS BEEN WANTING FOR CENTURIES.

The greatest discovery of our day, so far as a large portion of humanity is concerned, is CARBOLINE, an article prepared from Petroleum, and which effects a complete and radical cure in case of baldness, or where the hair, owing to diseases of the scalp, has become thin and tends to fall out.

It is also a speedy restorative, and while it secures a luxuriant growth of hair, it also brings back the natural color, and gives the most complete satisfaction to the hair.

The hair, the accumulations of dandruff, and the premature change in color, are all evidence of a diseased condition of the scalp and the glands which nourish the hair. To arrest these causes the article must possess medicinal as well as chemical virtues, and the change must begin under the scalp to be of permanent and lasting benefit.

Such an article is CARBOLINE, and like many other wonderful discoveries it is found to consist of elements almost to their natural state. Petroleum oil is the article which is made to work such extraordinary results; but it is after it has been chemically treated and completely deodorized that it is in proper condition for the scalp.

It is in fact, the oil of the petroleum upon the hair was first observed, a transparent oil having been noticed that a partially bald-headed servant of his, when trimming the lamps, had a habit of wiping his oil-burners in his scanty locks, and the result was in a few months a much finer head of black glossy hair than he ever had before.
